

$500,000,000 LOST IN "WILDCATS"

This sum is squandered annually in "Wildcat" investments, according to Houston Thompson, Federal Trade Commissioner.

In a recent number of "The American Magazine" Ellis Parker Butler writes about investments. And one of the things he says is:

"If I could write an article that would prevent young men from making fool investments, I would be a more valuable citizen than General Pershing, Woodrow Wilson and J. P. Morgan rolled into one. And in ten years time the young men would save enough to pay off the national debt of the United States, and hardly miss the money."

Don't take chances with your principal for the sake of a small difference in the income returned. Our Officers will advise you regarding prospective investments without cost or obligation.

We recommend that small investors put their surplus where it will be perfectly secure and bring a certain unvarying income.

OLD SOUTH MEETING PLACE

Glorious Memorial of Revolutionary Days Is Now One of the Proudest Possessions of Boston.

On Independence day, in the midst of flaunting, flapping flags, banners and streamers, the quiet, sober red brick walls and soaring white belfry of the Old South meeting house speak of the steadfastness during two and one-half centuries of the Society of the Third Church in Boston to its noble ideals.

The first building occupied by the society was picturesquely called the Cedar church, the place of Benjamin Franklin's baptism. The society was composed of such men as John Alden, eldest son of John and Priscilla of Mayflower fame; John Hull, a celebrated silversmith of the city; Thomas Brattle, one of the wealthiest merchants of his day; Joshua Scottow, a magistrate and leading military man; such women as the widow of John Cotton, and Mary Norton, who gave the site for the new church, on the main road to Roxbury, close to where Governor Winthrop lived for so long. It may be of interest to note, just here, that the church has always held this valuable real estate, from which it at present receives a considerable income, largely used for church extension.

Thomas Prince, minister of the Old South meeting house during the Revolutionary war, was a man of learning and the possessor of for that time, an extensive library.

Among his books was the log of the Mayflower, which so strangely disappeared from the church edifice. This old library, though still owned by the church, is at present housed in the Boston public library. Much of the pre-revolutionary stir of talk centered around the South meeting house; from there a party of citizens, being disguised as Indians, departed on the errand of tipping the tea into the harbor, and it was by means of a ladder and the fine colonial window behind the pulpit that Dr. Joseph Warren, before delivering one of his stirring addresses, effected his sensational leap into the midst of the crowd.

In the Civil war the church was as active as it has always been in times of national stress, since the wars of King Philip. Its pastor, Doctor Manning, became a chaplain, and the church was again a central meeting place for discussion and organization. In the early seventies business, in its steady growth, encroached upon the premises and its congregation diminished, in part because Washington street in those days was extraordinarily difficult of access by any public conveyance.

There was talk of removing to a more residential section, but this idea met with opposition; so large a part had the church played in public affairs that the people had come to look upon the building as their own especial property. There were obstacles and litigation, but finally the removal was effected and the new church in Copley square was dedicated in December of 1875.

"SLEEP-PROOF LECTURER" COMING TO CHAUTAUQUA FROM CLASSIC BOSTON

DR. FRANKLIN BABB

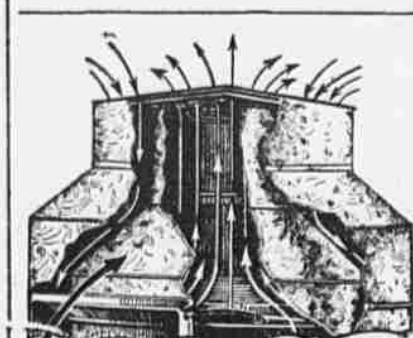

J. Franklin Babb, the "sleep-proof lecturer," will tell Chautauqua audiences this summer about "The 100 Per Cent Man."

"Babb never talks but an hour—but his lectures last a life-time," someone has said of Babb. He mingles rare, good sense with a keen American wit that has endeared him to thousands of Chautauqua goers.

Thermo-Seal Inner Lining

THE Thermo-Seal Inner Lining is the very foundation of successful heating with a pipeless furnace. Consider this carefully. Because—Warm air must keep on coming from the furnace, and cold air must keep on going in. If this circulation is retarded there will be no heat! Circulation will be retarded unless the cold air is kept cold until it reaches the bottom of furnace. (Note the direction of travel shown by arrows.) The Thermo-Seal Inner Lining, consisting of heavy asbestos covered with heavy galvanized steel plates keeps the cold air chamber permanently cool. It maintains air circulation—is assurance of plenty of healthful heat.

It Heats Less Price
It Ventilates Less Fuel
It Satisfies More Heat

The Thermo-Seal is an exclusive Homer feature. Come in and investigate its importance. Call, phone or write for catalog.

Having Bought the W. L. Augustine Building it Remains for me to Pay for It And to Reduce my Stock to Fit it.

A BIG SALE

is the solution of both of these problems.

Some lines of goods must be completely closed out and permanently dropped. Some lines must be reduced and not carried again quite so extensively.

But, in order to make this sale an all around event, one that will appeal to everybody, we are going to throw our entire stock into it! Even the most staple goods and the ones we will be compelled to go right out and buy again, are going to get a real reduction.

Here follows a partial list of things that will be sacrificed:

Ladies Suits, Coats, Skirts, Waists, House Dresses and Aprons.
Girl's Coats, Wash Dresses, Middies, and Smocks.
Underwear, Hosiery, Sweaters (for men, women and children). Summer and winter weights.
Blankets, Bed Spreads.
Gowns and Pajamas of outing muslin and crepe.
Muslin Underwear, including Princess Slips, Envelope Chemise, Corset Covers, Camisoles and Bloomers.

Is "Cheap" Twine Cheap?

A FARMER bought 6 bales of cheap twine—288 lbs., net. It checked short an average of 30 feet to the lb.—8,640 feet in 6 bales, or the equivalent of 17 1/4 lbs. of 500-ft. standard twine.

He harvested his wheat crop using this twine. There were 135,360 feet of twine (deducting shortage) in the 6 bales—enough to tie 67,680 bundles of grain (allowing 2 feet of twine for a bundle). But 8% of the bundles (5,414) were broken due to twine being weak and uneven.

The hired harvest hands lost an average of one minute's time tying each broken bundle by hand—5,414 minutes, or a total of over 90 hours.

In addition, 2% of the broken bundles (108), representing approximately 5 1/2 bushels of wheat, were lost because the loose grain was not picked up cleanly by the hired harvest hands.

Don't you think it would have been much more economical for this farmer to have paid a little more for his twine to begin with and bought good twine—twine of International Harvester manufacture that averages full 500-ft. to the pound and has but a very low percentage of breakage?

Take your choice of these two bales—same amount of twine in each, but due to new way of baling, the bale at the left has 6 bales while the old style bale at the right has 10 bales. The new bale enables you to carry 50% more twine in the binder twine can than is possible with the smaller bale. It takes up two-fifths less baling and storage space than large bale. 46 lbs. of twine, net, in both sizes.
